

Lewis
Carroll,
an English
writer and a mathema-tici
an

He was born in Darsbury, England in 1832.

His real name
was Charles Dodgson.
And Lewis
Carroll was his pen name.

When Charles finished school, he became a student at Oxford University ,where he studied mathematics. In a few years he began to teach this subject at the university .

Charles had no family. He often visited his friend Henry Liddell, who had a large family.

There were three little girls in the Liddell family.

He liked the oldest, Alice and he told the faire-tales to her and her sisters.

The most famous book of Carroll is “Alice's Adventures
in Wonderland”. At first it was published as “Alice’s adventures
under the ground

This
monument
is situated in Central Park, in New York.

- Lewis Carroll was a good photographer, a painter and a juggler. He died in 1898 but his magic novel will live forever.

