

OUR FRAGILE PLANET, CAN IT BE SAVED?

A pair of hands, one adult and one child, are gently cupping a small, realistic globe of the Earth. The globe shows swirling blue oceans, white clouds, and patches of green land. The hands are positioned with fingers spread, supporting the globe from below. The background is dark and out of focus.

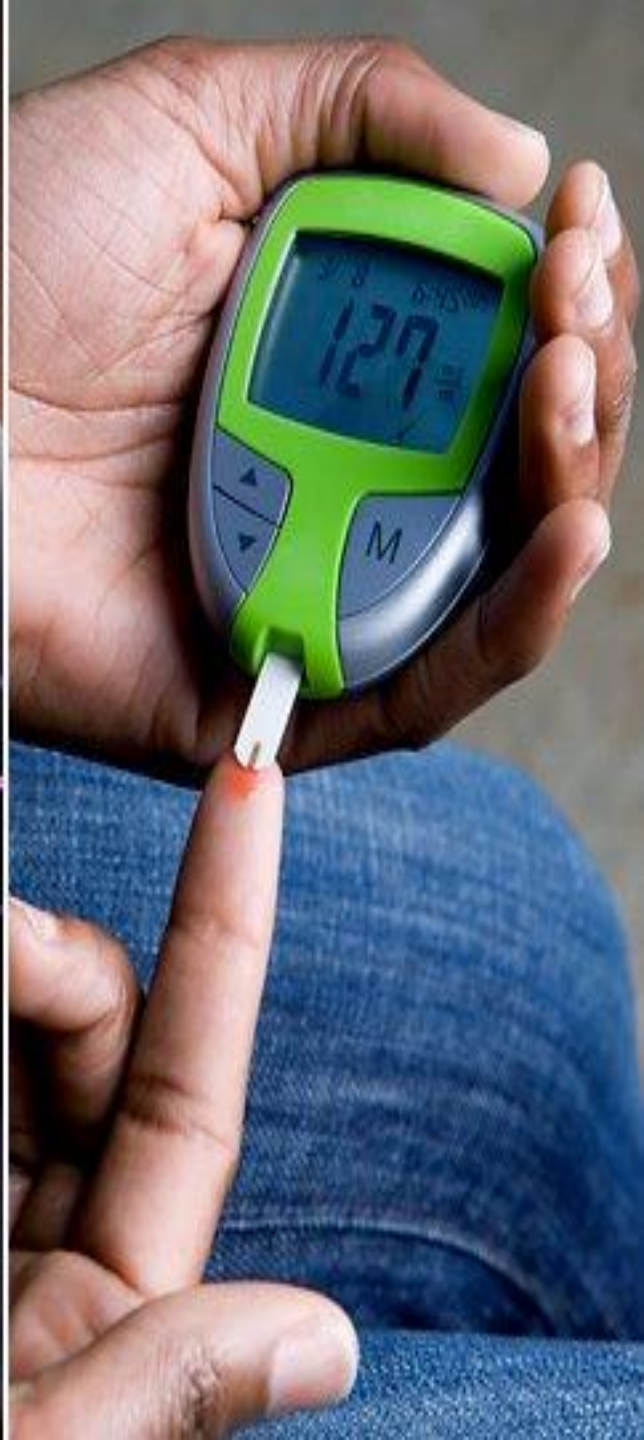

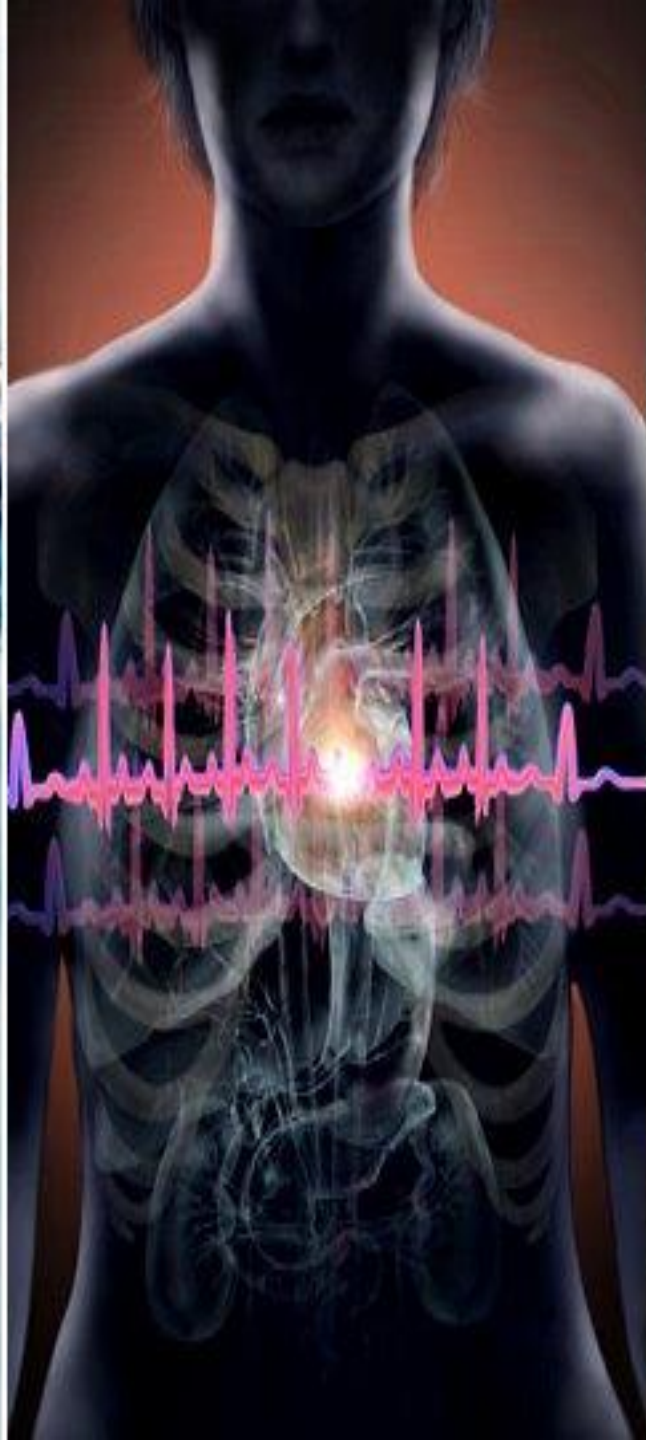

We do not inherit the earth from our ancestors,
we borrow it from our children.

Native American Proverb

A tall, dark industrial smokestack stands on the left side of the frame, emitting a thick, billowing plume of smoke that stretches across the top of the image. The smoke is dark near the stack and transitions to a lighter, yellowish-brown color as it disperses. The background is a clear blue sky with some wispy clouds. The overall scene suggests industrial activity and air pollution.
