

DANIEL DEFOE

Daniel Defoe

Born 1659–1660
London, England

Died 24 April 1731
(aged 70–72)
London, England

Occupation Writer,
journalist, merchant

Genres Adventure

- Daniel Defoe (1660 – 24 April 1731), born Daniel Foe.
- He was a brilliant journalist and in many ways the father of modern English periodicals. He founded and paved the way for many magazines ("The Revue", "The Spectator").
- He was famous for "Robinson Crusoe," "Moll Flanders," "Memoirs of a Cavalier," and many other works. He was one of the founders of the English novel.

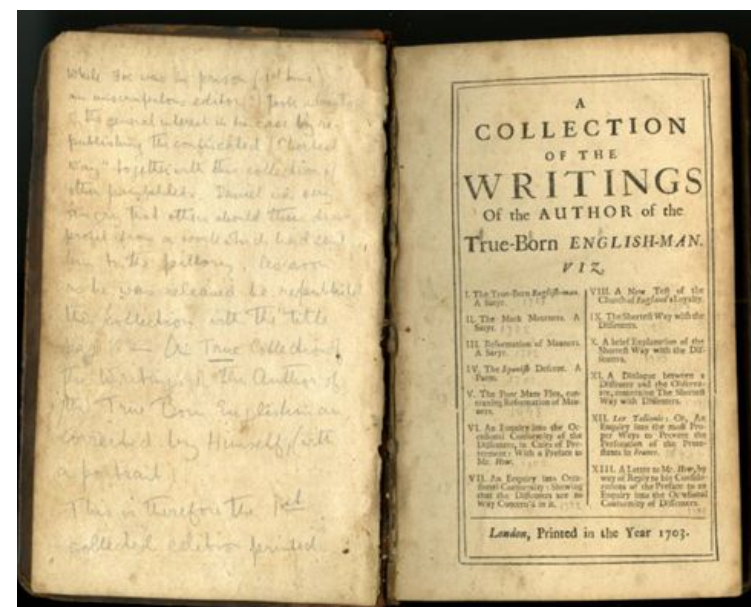

Daniel Defoe

- He lived and worked in The Age of Enlightenment (or simply Age of Reason) was a cultural movement of intellectuals beginning in late 17th-century Europe emphasizing reason and individualism rather than tradition.
- Its purpose was to reform society using reason, to challenge ideas grounded in tradition and faith, and to advance knowledge through the scientific method. It promoted scientific thought, skepticism, and intellectual interchange. The Enlightenment was a revolution in human thought. This new way of thinking was that rational thought begins with clearly stated principles, uses correct logic to arrive at conclusions, tests the conclusions against evidence, and then revises the principles in the light of the evidence.

- Daniel Defoe was born in London, his father, a butcher, was wealthy enough to give his son a good education (educated at a Dissenters' academy). Defoe was to become a priest, but it was his cherished desire to become wealthy.
- But he was always in deep debt. The only branch of business in which he proved successful was journalism and literature.
- When Daniel Defoe was about 23 he started writing pamphlets on question of the hour. He started writing pamphlets praising King William III, who was supported by the Whig party.

- Defoe's first important publication was An Essay upon Projects (1698), but it was not until the poem The True-born Englishman (1701), a defense of William III from his attackers, that he received any real fame.

- An ill-timed satire early in Queen Anne's reign, The Shortest Way with Dissenters (1702), an ironic defense of High Church animosity against nonconformists, resulted in Defoe's being imprisoned. He was rescued by Robert Harley and subsequently served the statesman as a political agent.

Robert Harley (1661 - 1724)

- Daniel Defoe was nearly sixty when he turned to writing novels. In 1719 he published his famous Life and Strange Surprising Adventures of Robinson Crusoe. It tells of a man's shipwreck on a deserted island and his subsequent adventures. The author based part of his narrative on the story of the Scottish castaway Alexander Selkirk, who spent four years on the Pacific island called "Más a Tierra" (in 1966 its name was changed to Robinson Crusoe Island)

Life and Strange Surprising Adventures of Robinson

- Robinson Crusoe describes the daily life of a man marooned on a desert island.
- The title page of the book provides a considerable amount of information for the reader.
- The LIFE and Strange Surprizing ADVENTURES of ROBINSON CRUSOE, of YORK. Mariner: Who lived Eight and Twenty Years, all alone in an un-inhabited Island on the Coast of America, near the Mouth of the Great River of Oroonoque; Having been cast on Shore by Shipwreck, where in all the Men perished but himself. With An Account how he was at last as strangely deliver' by PIRATES. Written by Himself.

Life and Strange Surprising Adventures of Robinson

- Defoe's hero is a typical Englishman. He has his own dignities and short-comings. The hero wants his country to be developed and to be the owner of new colonies. That is why Robinson Crusoe sells the boy in Brazil though he could escape captivity together with the boy he does it without any hesitation indifferently. He turns Friday into his servant and for slave though he makes pacific speeches against Spanish colonizers and gustier. These are common typical features almost every contemporary of the writer.

Life and Strange Surprising Adventures of Robinson

- In this book we see the 'hero' Robinson Crusoe, a youngster, hungry for a life of adventure, sick of his 'comfortable position in his father's house. Thus he is an angry young man. He runs away from his home once in search of thrilling experience. He faces many odds at sea, but returns successful with gold dust and sets up a plantation in Brazil. This short stint turns his head and when a few estate owners request that he go to Guinea to bring a few slaves, whom they could share among themselves, he jumps at the idea. When they propose to him that they will pay for his passage and look after his lands he is more than ready to go. This voyage is star-crossed. His ship is caught in a violent storm and he is thrown on a strange island. Here he is forced to live for 28 years on his own. Everything he has, he makes scratch. The clothes he wears are made from goat skins, goats he breeds for his food. He builds a raft, a boat, and a ship on his own. He develops his own calendar and his own ways of counting days. He grows crops, prepares furniture etc. He even trains a 'savage' to speak English. At last he reaches his plantation in Brazil, very old, matured and without any slaves. Then he gets married and has children. This is an action-packed thrilling

Life and Strange Surprising Adventures of Robinson

- The novel has been variously read as an allegory for the development of civilisation, as a manifesto of economic individualism and as an expression of European colonial desires but it also shows the importance of repentance and illustrates the strength of Defoe's religious convictions. It is also considered by many to

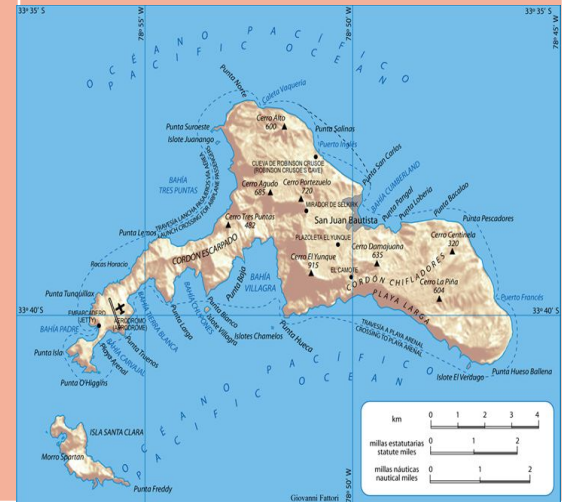

The glossary

Word	Translation	Transcription	Dedinition	Place	Quotation	Picture
Hull	/hʌl/	Название английского города Хал	a city and port in NE England, situated at the junction of the Hull and Humber Rivers; population 263,000 . Official name Kingston upon Hull .	Chapte r 1	My father being a foreigner, who settled first at Hull.
Comrade	/'kɒmreɪd /	Товарищ	a colleague or a fellow member of an organization	Chapte r 2	My comrade, who had helped to harden me before.
Anchor	/'ʌŋkə /	Якорь	A heavy object attached to a cable or chain and used to moor a ship to the sea bottom, typically having a metal shank with a pair of curved, barbed	Chapter 2	Two more ships being driven from their anchors.

The glossary

Robinson Crusoe Island

Robinson Crusoe Island, formerly known as Más a Tierra is the second largest of the Juan Fernández Islands, situated 670 km (416 mi) west of San Antonio, Chile, in the South Pacific Ocean. It is the most populous of the inhabited islands in the archipelago with most of that in the town of San Juan Bautista at Cumberland Bay on the island's north coast.

Friday

Friday is the first person Crusoe introduces into the social order of the island. His name, of course, isn't Friday by birth, but this is the name that Crusoe gives him after saving him from the hands of the cannibals. Crusoe also teaches Friday to speak English, encourages him to eat goat, and aids in his conversion to Christianity.

Works

- Defoe's next novel was Captain Singleton (1720)
- Later, Defoe wrote Memoirs of a Cavalier (1720), set during the Thirty Years' War and the English Civil War.
- A Journal of the Plague Year, a complex historical novel published in 1722.
- Colonel Jack (1722)
- Also in 1722, Defoe wrote Moll Flanders
- And Defoe's final novel Roxana: The Fortunate Mistress (1724)

Memorial to "Daniel De-Foe", Bunhill Fields, City Road, London

Death

- Daniel Defoe died on 24 April 1731, probably while in hiding from his creditors. He was interred in Bunhill Fields, London, where a monument was erected to his memory in 1870.
- Defoe is known to have used at least 198 pen names.

Sources

- http://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Daniel Defoe
- <http://www.online-literature.com/defoe/crusoe/>
- http://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Robinson Crusoe Island
- <http://www.shmoop.com/robinson-crusoe/friday.html>
- <http://www.enotes.com/topics/robinson-crusoe>

Thank you for your attention

