"Planet Earth" was released for the first time the UK in March 2006 on the channel BBC One, and a year later she continued her winning streak in the American show Discovery Channel. By June 2007, a series of television programs "Planet Earth" was shown in 130 countries around the world.

A humpback whale is shown swimming in deep blue water. The whale's head is in the foreground, and its body extends towards the background. The water is clear, and the lighting is soft, creating a serene atmosphere. The whale's skin appears dark, and its fins are visible.

Series comprises eleven episodes,
each of which is a review of the various habitats of living
organisms on Earth.

A row of several golden Oscar statues is shown, slightly out of focus, creating a sense of depth. The statues are arranged in a line, with the one in the foreground being sharper than the others. The background is a soft, warm-toned blur.
