- The profession of a doctor is one of the ancient professions. In history, the names of the first doctors (Hippocrates, Asklepid) will always remain, whose knowledge to treat people not only saved many lives, but also gave rise to the development of medicine.

What is being a doctor?

- Profession of a doctor is much more complicated than it seems at first glance, and much more interesting. The doctor is a pride . Putting on a white robe, they take responsibility.

The profession of a doctor is sleepless nights at the bedside of the patient, daily risk, a huge responsibility for someone else's life. Both day and night doctors can call to the patient. The only plus that a doctor should expect is an awareness of the importance of what he does.

Often medic risk their own lives, going to the hotbeds of epidemics or hot spots.

A doctor is not a profession- it's a way of life

- This profession is suitable for those who sincerely want to help people who are able to empathize. Not everyone can be a doctor.
