A photograph of a forest. The majority of the trees are tall, thin, vertical trunks of pine trees, likely Scots pines, with light brown bark. They are densely packed and reach towards the top of the frame. In the foreground, there are several smaller, darker green evergreen trees, possibly spruce or fir, which are more bushy and have a conical shape. The ground is covered in a thick layer of green moss and some fallen pine needles. The lighting is soft, suggesting an overcast day or a shaded forest interior.
