A photograph of a group of small birds, likely finches, perched on a thin, brown branch. The birds are in various poses, some facing forward and others in profile. They have a mix of colors: some are grey and white, others are blue and white, and one has a prominent orange beak. The background is dark and out of focus, showing more branches. The word "ПТИЦЫ" is written in a large, stylized, reddish-brown font across the middle of the image.
