

The background of the slide is a soft, watercolor-style illustration of a forest scene. A narrow, light-colored path leads from the bottom center towards the background, disappearing into a misty or foggy atmosphere. On either side of the path, there are clusters of wildflowers, including white daisies and yellow buttercups, along with green grass and foliage. The trees are birches, with their characteristic white bark and black lenticels. Some birch trunks are visible on the left and right edges of the frame, with green leaves hanging down. The overall color palette is soft and natural, with muted greens, yellows, and greys.
