

Teaching on Skype:

- Why teach on Skype?
- What are the pros and cons of teaching online?
- What should I start with?

Teaching online is not suitable for kinaesthetic
learners

Teaching YL online may be rather time-consuming

PROS

FLEXIBILITY AND COMFORT

I set my schedule myself.

I don't waste time and money getting to my students.

I can go anywhere as long as I have my laptop with me.

EXPOSURE TO DIVERSE STUDENTS

Teaching online enables you to teach students from all over the globe.

CREATIVITY

Teaching online is a wonderful way to express your creativity.

ACCESSIBILITY

Accessible for the disabled, parents with younger children, etc.

COFFEE

Your coffee is always with you

DIGITAL MATERIALS

Absence of piles of printed worksheets.

RECOMMENDATIONS

- Start teaching online. Go for it.
- Make sure you take care of your health.

WHAT SHOULD I START WITH?

- Study the tools that may help you beforehand
- Inform you students in advance
- Be wise: make a list of all the pros and share it with your SS
- Keep calm: not all of your SS will agree anyway
- Don't worry, the whole world is ahead of you now!

QUESTION 1

- Do you have a compilation of top tasks that are easy to adapt to suit a range of levels?

QUESTION 2

- What was the hardest thing you came across when you first started teaching on Skype?

QUESTION 3

- Do you use any additional resources or tools during the lessons?

QUESTION 4

- How can I record my lesson on skype?

QUESTION 5

- Are online lessons suitable for adult learners at A1-A2 levels?

QUESTION 6

- Are online lessons suitable for Young Learners

QUESTION 7

- Do you create a new presentation for each lesson?

QUESTION 8

- How powerful should my laptop be in order to teach on skype and show a video to my SS through screen sharing?

THANK YOU A MILLION!

Wish you all the best of luck!